

24th November
2010

The age of not believing by Andrew Szlachetko

Book report by
Georgia Tooth

The age of not believing is a very imaginative book. It is for all ages from 5 years old, to 13 years old. ~~It uses~~ The author has used very descriptive language to paint a picture in your head, which is helped along by a couple of very good drawings. In some areas of the book it can be exciting and tense, and in some, calm, reflective and thoughtful. It tells you very well of how the character is feeling, and the thoughts going through the mind of the character. It is a very colourful, and imaginative book, which is very festive as well. The sentence structure is complex and descriptive, which is very good I think. The story line is very good, though in some parts, the first time you read it, it does not really make sense, but when you read it over, it is more understandable. My favourite part was the ending. ~~It is about~~ The main theme is about a boy who discovers the true meaning of 'the magic of Christmas', goodwill, and compassion. It is very relevant as it is coming up to Christmas! The age of not believing, is a very festive, and all round great book!